Delmark Doings

A big congrats to Delmark's Bob Koester, Sr. and blues saxophone legend/band leader/Delmark recording artist Eddie Shaw for receiving the Lifetime Achievement Awards from Blues Blast magazine at their annual awards ceremony and show, held at Buddy Guy's Legends on Halloween evening of this year. We were so touched by the wonderfully written heartfelt tribute for Bob and Eddie from Blues Blast and Blues Music magazine's Mark Thompson. "There may not be another single individual who has impacted the recorded history of blues and jazz in Chicago as much as Bob Koester"

A big shout out also goes to fantastic blues guitarist/vocalist Mike Wheeler for being nominated for two Blues Blast awards this year- the Sean Costello Rising Star award and the new artist debut release for his killer Delmark CD, Self Made Man !

Speaking of rising stars in the blues world, Toronzo Cannon's new Delmark CD, John The Conquer Root has recently hit the streets, and is receiving rave reviews already-"...From this and his own life experiences, he writes wonderful, thoughtful songs; and plays and sings from the heart which result in performances are full of personality. A listener cannot expect more from a musician than one hears on this striking recording" says Ron Weinstock of In A Blue Mood. This modern bluesman tackles interesting issues in his songwriting, including the new CD's "Shine" where he tackles Armenian history, which interestingly led to an upcoming tour in Armenia, the first bluesman performing there since BB King years ago! Toronzo was recently featured in Blues Revue Magazine, Illinois Entertainer's Sweet Home, Japan's Blues & Soul, & Friday Blues Fix, and will be also featured in France's excellent ABS magazine, as well as Mark Wade's A1-Blues interview/podcast site. Most Delmark artists have been featured on this interesting site, including a recent fascinating and candid interview with our main man, the one and only Lurrie Bell! "Lurrie's Blues In My Soul is the best CD he has done in years, if not ever, so sit back and enjoy this weeks show on one of Chicago's best known sons of the blues, Lurrie Bell!"- check it out online (A1artistspotlight.com)

Speaking of the living legend, Lurrie, take a look at this incredibly positive quote on his new CD from Chicago Blues Guide's Mark Baier, "Delmark label boss Bob Koester and producer Dick Shurman have enabled Lurrie Bell the freedom to create a recording that will affirm the blues genre for years to come. That Blues in My Soul is a Delmark recording, perhaps the world's most respected Jazz and Blues imprint that is celebrating its 60th Anniversary this year, will assure the notice of more than just the traditional Blues audience. Blues in My Soul is a recording that, with Delmark's imprimatur, could be a dark horse for Grammy consideration. Let the Recording Academy know; Blues in My Soul is the immortal soul of the blues. Call your friends in NARAS! 5+ stars, an iconic recording! "

In other interesting blues news, the ageless wonder, Jimmy "The Bar Room Preacher" Johnson will be performing 3 concerts in Brazil (November 21st to 23rd) and then will be coming home for a big 85th (!) birthday celebration and holiday blues party on December 17th with guitar star Dave Specter at S.P.A.C.E. in Evanston. Congrats goes out to the incredible Rockin' Johnny Burgin for a well deserved cover and full feature in Finland's Blues News magazine, as well as the same treatment for the supremely talented singer, Grana' Louise in Belgium's Back to The Roots magazine. The current Back to the Roots also features a fantastic, in-depth 8 page article on one of the blues world's best rhythm guitarists, Rick Kreher! You can see/hear Rick add his remarkable rhythm guitar skills to many bands, including Rockin' Johnny, Studebaker John, Mud Morganfield, Tail Dragger, Harmonica Hinds, and more!

You dig swingin' jazz guitar?! The oh so tasteful Chicago guitarist Andy Brown, along with one of his mentors, NYC legendary jazz guitarist Howard Alden will celebrate their fantastic new Delmark CD, Heavy Artillery, with a weekend party, live at the world famous Green Mill, Fri & Sat Nov 1, 2. Howard Reich of Chicago Tribune on the pair's 2011 gig at the Mill, "Though separated by geography and generations, thirty-something Brown and fifty-something Alden rejuvenated a buoyant brand of swing rhythm you don't encounter very often anymore. It harkened back to the pre-bop era of the 1930s and specifically referenced the music of jazz guitarist Django Reinhardt. It was one of the more joyous engagements of last year."

The intense and immensely talented reedist Keefe Jackson will be celebrating his new Delmark CD on December 7th at one of Chicago's greatest new music venues, Constellation. Chicago Reader's music critic Peter Margasak says the "Chicago reedist and composer Keefe Jackson steps up his game. A Round Goal (Delmark)—recorded live at the Jazzwerkstatt Festival in Berne, Switzerland, this past February— captures a performance by an international reed septet, dubbed Keefe Jackson's Likely So, that vibrantly shows how the leader's abilities as a writer and arranger have caught up with his gift for improvising."

BOB KOESTER In His Own Words

[First published July 3, 2013 by Chicago Jazz Magazine. Reprinted with permission.]

For Delmark Record's 60th Anniversary, Chicago Jazz Magazine did an extensive cover story and interview with Bob Koester, Delmark's owner. This is the second installment of the original article, continued from Rhythm & News issue #734.

Chicago Jazz Magazine: Bob, you're talking about a period of music that pre-dates Delmark by…

Bob Koester: …by almost thirty years. Oh yes, it does. Most of the music I love predates Delmark! [laughs]

CJM: You have just rattled off a string of names, dates and chronology like an encyclopedia, even though they were well before your time. How is it that you've gained so much knowledge—did you do a lot of reading or is it through speaking with people?

BK: There's a book over there. [points to a shelf overburdened with books, magazines, CDs and other miscellaneous items]—I think it's the exact copy that I bought back in 1948 of The Jazz Record Book; it was the follow-up to Jazzmen, which was the first serious book on jazz in the United States. William Russell had a lot to do with Jazzmen, and when they interviewed Louis Armstrong, they learned about Bunk Johnson, who predated King Oliver. They recorded him and brought him back to the music biz. Bill Russell, Charles Henry Smith, Frederic Ramsey, and I forget who else, were all involved with writing Jazzmen and The Jazz Record Book. It's an interesting book, with chapters on early jazz, swing combos and big bands, and on blues. The first half of the blues chapter is about the old ladies from the twenties—Bessie Smith, Chippie Hill, Ma Rainey, and others—the second half mentions a then-recent release of the first recording of Memphis Slim, has listings of Robert Johnson, has a lot of other contemporary blues. That was the beginning, and you think about the mountains of books that have come since then—those two books and Hugues Panassié's Real Jazz were the only books you could find on jazz when I was first interested in it. There was a Louis Armstrong bio, and pretty soon Eddie Condon and Mezz Mezzrow did bios. Esquire got involved about 1943 and did annuals for several years in the mid-forties with Leonard Feather and other younger writers. I could find those if I worked hard enough at it. I don't think Metronome ever published any books, but Esquire was big on jazz, and had a lot to do with pushing jazz. Almost all the writers of Jazzmen did some writing for Esquire.

CJM: Being the aficionado that you are, give us a couple of book titles with which every jazz fan should be familiar.

BK: Wow, tough decision! Jazzmen is still pretty good at early jazz, though there are a few inaccuracies in there. I can't really boil it down to just a few books. I would say some of Nat Hentoff's stuff is pretty thorough. John Litweiller's book covers the avant-garde area and fits it into history. The first time we noticed Hentoff, he did a thing damning the traditional jazz groups, Gene Mayl's Dixieland Rhythm Kings and Bob Wilbur's band. He later apologized for that, but that got him into DownBeat—I think he was the editor of DownBeat, eventually. Incidentally, DownBeat was not originally a jazz magazine—it was a musician's magazine. Hentoff's many books are all worth reading. The guy who started it had a run-in with Pertillo.

CJM: James Petrillo, head of the musician's union?

BK: Yeah. It's not well known, but Petrillo called for a record ban in Chicago in 1938, which was about the end of Chicago as a major recording center, because Los Angeles, with Hollywood sound movies, was becoming a major center for talent.

CJM: Why did he call for a record ban?

BK: He did not like jukeboxes, because the jukeboxes were replacing the local piano players. That was his way to fight the jukeboxes. He was never able to get the jukebox companies to pay him so much for every record they bought or anything, but he wanted the record companies to donate to the union.

CJM: Speaking of unions, you've recorded some of the AACM musicians. Didn't the AACM start as its own separate union?

BK: Well, it was an excellent organization, but I don't think it was anti-union or anything; that was not the focus. The focus was on allowing the freedom of expression, that they didn't have to play bebop. I mean this happens in jazz—people want to change and it comes rather slowly, so an avant-garde movement starts. I think we have the first avant-garde jazz record—Sun Ra's Sun Song, his first LP in July, 1956. And I think Sun Ra was later in the AACM, but not for very long.

CJM: Many of the original AACM guys are gone now.

BK: A few have passed on, but many have gone to teaching at colleges or working out of New York or Europe. Yeah, most of the early AACM guys—outside of Roscoe Mitchell, who's not in Chicago—are teaching jazz at a college. An important difference between the avant-garde and the bop guys is their attitude toward earlier styles. You don't hear Roscoe Mitchell putting down Louis Armstrong, Jelly Roll Morton, Dizzy Gillespie, Lester Young or Charlie Parker. But the musicians in the bop era did put down the earlier styles: Oh, you're playing that old Dixieland shit, you know, and that has changed. And one other thing that has changed is the young jazz fans today. They will come into the store and buy Roscoe Mitchell, Louis Armstrong, Duke Ellington, Pee Wee Russell—you know, they see it as a whole body of music. Not to pat myself on the back, but to me that's always how it's always been—it's a big body of music, and there's stuff that I don't understand and don't care for, and there's stuff that I love, and stuff I wish I understood a little better, you know. Joe Segal helped me appreciate Charlie Parker, but the big change was his record of "Old Folks." I love that record.

CJM: What did Joe tell you or show you that made you appreciate Bird?

BK: One day, after I had seen Ornette Coleman at the Sutherland, he just walked me through one of Charlie Parker's Dial tracks and showed me the similarity. Probably I got into it listening to some of the ballads. Now I dig Bird as much as I do Johnny Dodds, but if I'm going to listen to something I am going to play the Johnny Dodds record, because I hear the Bird sides in the store all the time. I don't listen to records at home; I don't spend much time there. Don't tell my wife I admitted that. [laughs]

CJM: Getting back to how a young person can find out about jazz history, what did you think of the Ken Burns series on jazz?

BK: I liked it. I think it was the beginning of what should have been a fifty-two hour program, you know. You just can't cover it all in the time he had, but he did a damn good job. He decided not to do the avant-garde—he felt that there had to be a cut-off point and that was it—and he got criticized for not doing the avant-garde. How many programs did he make?

"The Dirty Dozens was a game that kids played, Red says back in Georgia—and I guess all over the south—where I insult your family twelve times and you insult my family twelve times. And the first guy who throws a punch loses."

–BOB KOESTER

CJM: Thirteen.

BK: Thirteen. Yeah, I think if he made twenty-six he would have covered the avant-garde, and he would have done a side trip into blues.

CJM: He did a little bit with Ornette Coleman, but he did not delve deeply into it.

BK: Later they did a blues series. When they started out, I talked to a famous director—I can't think of his name—came in here and sat me down at our studio board and interviewed me about J.B. Lenoir. I didn't have much to say, and I didn't appear on that one; but I am on another one where I walked into the store, when we were on Wabash, and there is a camera, there's mics and there's Marshall Chess with a rapper. And they asked me about rap music and blues. To me, rap music is part of the whole jazz scene—it's one of those little side trips. And incidentally I got with the rapper and we swapped choruses, and we put on our Delmark record called The Dirty Dozens, by Speckled Red. The Dirty Dozens was a game that kids played, Red says back in Georgia—and I guess all over the south—where I insult your family twelve times and you insult my family twelve times. And the first guy who throws a punch loses. He picked up this song and the lyrics were very obscene. When Brunswick recorded him, they made him change the lyrics. He did The Dirty Dozens in 1929 for Brunswick, and a year later, The Dirty Dozens Number Two, which, always happened with blues records. We finally issued two takes ith the naughty lyrics in our more enlightened age when we put out his CD. I forgot to label it as not for children, but we'll correct that on the next print run. Mayo Williams woud always stretch a hot title—like Leroy Carr's "How Long, How Long Blues": "How Long Blues, with Leroy Carr and Scrapper Blackwell—Guitar Solos" "How Long Blues Number Two" then "Number Three" and I think "Number Four", and then a follow up with a similar concept.

CJM: They were trying to milk a hit.

BK: They were milking a hit, and they milked a little bit of The Dirty Dozens, although the Brunswick records didn't sell as well as the Vocalians for some reason. Well, Brunswick had two labels-eventually. Vocalian became a budget line. The Brunswick records were seventy-five cents. How many black people in 1931 had seventy-five cents to buy a record? Same with Okeh record issued in 1932 by a country singer whose name I can't remember for eight hundred dollars to a guy who buys and sells rare—really rare records. He'll charge a hundred and fifty bucks for a Robert Johnson. I sold my Roberts for five or ten dollars when I sold my 78 collection to finance the move to Grand Avenue from Wabash. To be continued...

DELMARK REACHES 60 YEARS OF JAZZ & BLUES

$15.99 EACH CD

John & Sylvia Embry Troubles (Delmark DE 832)

Queen Sylvia Embry is best known as the bass-playing vocalist in Lefty Dizz and the Shock Treatment during the late 70s. The group was immensely popular and played some of the best (and wildest) blues music in Chicago. They were the house band for Blue Mondays at the Checkerboard and played regularly at the Kingston Mines. It seemed as if Sylvia was poised to break out as Chicago's leading blues woman as she started to front her own band and recording for three different labels in just a few years. "John Embry was one of the city's fine but unheralded blues guitarists", said Sylvia. They were married for a time but by time they recorded this album they had divorced. Recorded on January 19, 1979 by the tiny Razor label the original album, known as After Work, is long out-of-print. This new CD re-issue contains previously unissued material. This is classic Chicago blues at its best.

Ari Brown Groove Awakening (Delmark DE 5011)

Chicago is known as a jazz city that carries on the tough tenor tradition. The blues feeling was always an important element for the great tenor sax players like Gene Ammons, Von Freeman, Eddie Johnson, Red Holloway and now that they are all gone it's Ari Brown that is the leading torch bearer. The album contains three dedications: "One For Ken" is for Chicago jazz pianist Ken Chaney who passed recently, "Give Thanks (Song For Gerri)" is for Ari's mother-in-law, who made her transition after the main recording for this album was complete and "Freebop For Mal" is dedicated to the late Delmark artist Malachi Thompson. On this, his fourth Delmark album, Ari is accompanied by brother Kirk Brown, piano; Yosef Ben Israel, bass; Avreeayl Ra, drums; and Dr. Cuz, percussion. Also available; Ultimate Frontier (486); Venus (504) and Live at the Green Mill (577, DVD 1577).

Delmark 60th Anniversary: Blues (Delmark DE 917)

Founded in 1953 by Bob Koester, Delmark Records continues to record jazz and blues under Koester's leadership. To celebrate the 60th anniversary local multi-artist blues shows have been ongoing and this special CD package features previously unissued performances by blues legends and new songs from Delmark's current line-up of exciting talent. Tracks include an unissued Junior Wells song from the South Side Blues Jam session featuring Otis Spann; Magic Sam from a 1968 live performance, a sneak preview of the full CD slated for November; an alternate take from the Little Walter Trio featuring Muddy Waters which has never been on CD; Toronzo Cannon, Studebaker John, Linsey Alexander, Quintus McCormick, Lurrie Bell, Eddie C. Campbell and much more.

Delmark 60th Anniversary: Jazz (Delmark DE 916)

Perhaps best known as a blues label Delmark Records actually has issued more jazz albums than blues and was the first label to record Chicago's AACM jazz collective. Founded in 1953 by Bob Koester, Delmark Records continues to record jazz and blues under Koester's leadership including today's cutting edge jazz scene in Chicago. Delmark 60th Anniversary: Jazz features Red Holloway, Eddie "Lockjaw" Davis from masters originally recorded for the Apollo label but never issued on CD, Sonny Stitt, Nicole Mitchell, Corey Wilkes, Ernest Dawkins, Kahil El'Zabar, a sneak preview of the forthcoming new album from The Fat Babies, Ira Sullivan with the Jim Holman Trio, Keefe Jackson, Josh Berman and more.

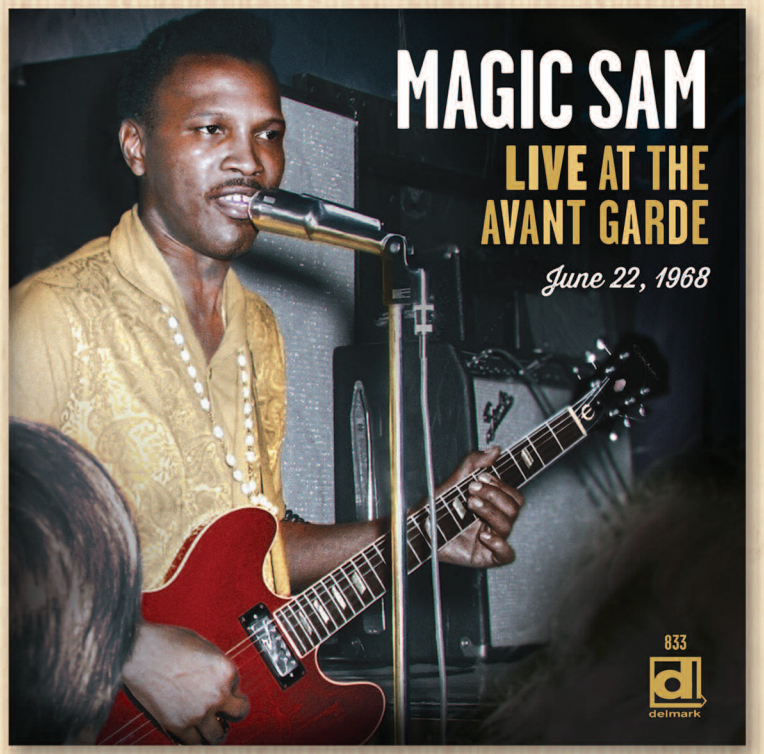
Delmark Presents

A NEW RELEASE FROM THE LEGENDARY

MAGIC SAM



MAGIC SAM

Live At The Avant Garde (DELMARK 833)

Before Magic Sam scored with 1967's West Side Soul (Delmark 615) his recorded legacy included a handful of sides for Cobra in the late '50s, Chief in the early '60s and a few miscellaneous 45s in the mid-'60s. But just when it looked like things were going to really take off for Sam he passed away on December 1, 1969 at the age of 32. Delmark issued 1968's Black Magic (Delmark 620) and there have been several posthumous releases of live recordings including the classic Live (Delmark 645). This album comes from a June 22, 1968 live concert recorded at the Avant Garde in Milwaukee. It features Magic Sam, vocals, guitar; Big Mojo Elem, bass; and Bob Richey, drums. Over 65 minutes including "That's All I Need," "I Need You So Bad," "Two Trains Running," "Come On In This House" and more. This is surely a must-have addition to your Magic Sam collection!

Magic Sam
Live at the Avant Garde
Delmark DE 833

Before Magic Sam scored with 1967's West Side Soul (Delmark 615) his recorded legacy included a handful of sides for Cobra in the late '50s, Chief in the early '60s and a few miscellaneous 45s in the mid-'60s. But just when it looked like things were going to really take off for Sam he passed away on December 1, 1969 at the age of 32. Delmark issued 1968's Black Magic (Delmark 620) and there have been several posthumous releases of live recordings including the classic Live (Delmark 645). This album comes from a June 22, 1968 live concert recorded at the Avant Garde in Milwaukee. It features Magic Sam, vocals, guitar; Big Mojo Elem, bass and Bob Richey, drums. Over 65 minutes including "That's All I Need" "I Need You So Bad", "Two Trains Running", "Come On In This House" and more.

Fareed Haque
Trance Hypothesis
Delmark 5012

A powerful blend of groove jazz, world music, electronica and Punjabi folk, Trance Hypothesis is Fareed Haque's debut as a leader for Delmark. Driven by Haque's incisive and funky bebop guitar playing the album also features a diverse cast of world musicians including Essam Rafea, oud; Indrajit Banerjee, sitar; Matthew Tembo, kalimba; young tabla virtuoso Shiva Ghoshal and jazz musicians Tony Monaco, Hammond B3 organ and Willerm Delisfort, piano. Haque originals include "Hymn of The Ancient One", "Poonjob in The Punjab", "Chitlins & Chutney" and more. Also available: Ethnic Heritage Ensemble, Hot 'N' Heavy (574, DVD 1574) with Fareed Haque and Edward Petersen, Upward Spiral (445) with Fareed Haque.

Kahil El'Zabar
Follow the Sun
Delmark DE 5013

Drummer, percussionist, composer, bandleader, music director and interdisciplinary arts activist Kahil El'Zabar will be turning 60 years the week of the release of Follow The Sun, his 60th album! Featured is Los Angeles-based vocalist Dwight Trible who combines vocal virtuosity with musicianship and improvisational skills to the delight of audiences and musicians alike. In addition to his own group Dwight has also worked with Pharoah Sanders, Horace Tapscott, Charles Lloyd, Kenny Burrell, Kenny Garrett, Della Reese and many others. And there's a sub-plot to the story – Ari Brown performs with his mentor Duke Payne, best known as one of the two sax players with Odell Brown and the Organ-Izers who made 4 LPs for Cadet between 1966 and –'68. Duke is also one of the few jazz bagpipes players.

The Fat Babies
18th & Racine
Delmark DE 255

Chicago Hot (Delmark 253), the first Delmark release from the Fat Babies, was chosen as a top ten album of 2012 by Howard Reich in the Chicago Tribune. 18th & Racine was recorded at the acoustically gifted Electrical Audio room B as the band swung through a smattering of hot 'n' sweet tunes that have been slaying crowds weekly at their Green Mill and Honky Tonk BBQ performances. The Fat Babies interpret classic styles of the '20s and '30s. Founded in 2010 by string bass player Beau Sample, its members include Andy Schumm, cornet; John Otto, reeds; Dave Bock, trombone; Jake Sanders, banjo and guitar; Paul Asaro, piano; Alex Hall, drums. "The Stampede", "King Kong Stomp", "Liza", "Mable's Dream", "The Chant" and ten more.

JAZZ & BLUES ON DVD

The number in parentheses is the APPROXIMATE time in minutes, where known. "+" indicates bonus material not included in the running time. Capital letters refer to the following.
P Performance video — Usually a 2-3 camera set-up in a television studio or a club: straight performance, not much filler.
D Documentary — Mixes interviews and usually narration to tell a story about the featured performer.
T Television show —Some, like the Nat King Cole videos are from actual TV series or specials, others from documentaries.
A Audio-only DVD - No video, get it just for DVD's superior audio. F Feature Film I Instructional video - for aspiring musicians.
